LEADERSHIP

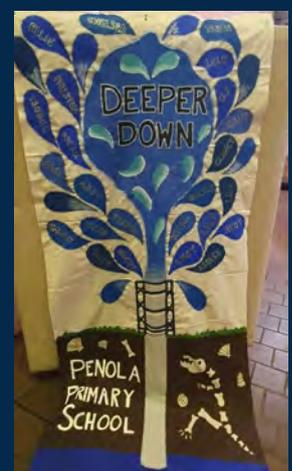

Principal : Anna Copping

Welcome to Term 4. It is such a fun term! There is so much happening this term including sports day, swimming lessons, concert, school photos, camps and much more. Please keep an eye on the calendar and for notes/information that are being sent home.

Last night I, along with a number of other staff members, had the pleasure of watching our choir perform at the Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre. Our choir sang their hearts out and it was obvious they enjoyed being on stage. Our compere, Macey O'Brien, and our soloists, Lucy Lambert, CJ Epiha, Charlee Yates, Macey O'Brien and Clancy Eastwood were standout performers. Thank you to Stacey Walters and Nicole Johnstone for leading our choir this year.

As primary school educators, we rarely get to see how our past students are progressing in high school. It was a lovely surprise this week to receive a piece of writing from a former student. The student had been set the task of doing a "quick write", recounting what they had done in the school holidays. Feeling like they hadn't done a lot during the holidays they were a little worried about what they were going to write but being familiar with "quick writes", they just started. The student's teacher collected the writing and after reading it told the student this was a high-quality piece of writing and the teacher wouldn't be making any changes. When the teacher asked where the student had learnt to write like that the student replied "Writer's Workshop". This is the best kind of feedback, knowing that what we do and how we teach has a long-lasting impact. I have attached the student's writing (with their permission) to share with you.

Thank you to Alex Lambert for her creative flair for our school Choir banner.

Sports News:

Tony O'Connell

We have continued to have plenty happening on the sports front, which is great as kids need to be active and learning to socialise with a broad range of people.

Congratulations to the following students who have participated in Sapsasa representative events in recent weeks:

- * Louise Stanley: State Hockey Carnival (Silver medallist).
- * Harrison DeGaris: State Hockey Carnival (Third place).
- * Bradley Meek: State Soccer Carnival (Silver medallist).
- * Nellie Lear and Macey O'Brien: State Soccer Carnival
- * Aidan Gartner and Jack Lambert: State Track & Field Championships.
- * Bodhi Lear, Finn Skeer, Ben Copping, Jack Cutchie, Ryan Meek, Bradley Meek, and Harrison DeGaris: State Basketball Finals (Third place).
- * Ivy Wurst, Mia Gartner, Charlize Bailey, and Kiara Epiha: Inaugural State Girls' Football Carnival (Silver medallists).

Congratulations to the following students who have won selection in upcoming events:

- * Finn Skeer, Bryce Catlin, Luc Baverstock: State Cricket Carnival.
- * Tegan Lythgo, Louise Stanley, Ryan Meek, Bradley Meek, Luc Baverstock: State Tennis Carnival.

In the coming weeks we also have a group of Years 6 and 7 boys and girls who have been selected to participate in the inaugural Sapsasa Volleyball Carnival. These students have been learning about volleyball in PE lessons in recent weeks and have really been honing their skills and building their knowledge of the game.

We also have Hot Shots Tennis lessons with Dave Boyce during Weeks 4 and 5 and Swimming lessons with Georgie Sharman and Bonnie Edwards in Weeks 6 and 7.

And the event we've all been waiting for, Sports Day, is next Friday, October 29th. Notes concerning Sports Day will be sent home this coming Monday.

Past Students Writing: Holiday Recount

Holiday recount

Friday 1st of October

My fingers were icy. Frozen solid. “6 by 12 times 4” I mumbled under my breath. I pressed in my calculations, and lifted my head up to see my manager doing star jumps. There we were. Standing in the cool room, doing the yearly stock take.

It was the most miserable day, and I was ready to jump back into bed. Our faces were numb. Our toes were slabs of ice. Nobody was having fun anymore. “Alright. Two more rows and then a bakery run. What do you think?”. Mark looked up from his clipboard, awaiting my response. “Sounds like a plan!”. I did a quick lap of the room, in an attempt to get the blood pumping, and we were off. Shelf after shelf, box after box. We were on a roll, and nothing could stop us.

Mark put down his clipboard and took a seat on the edge of a box. I took the steamy pastry out of the paper bag and inhaled the buttery goodness. The first bite was heavenly. Filled with rich flavours that made my mouth water. “This isn’t so bad I guess”.

Monday 4th of October

The butter sizzled and spat as the pan began to heat. Onions, garlic, herbs, and spices. First the tomatoes, then the black beans. I stirred the mixture, and watched it bubble. I set the heat back down to two, and let it simmer. Rich smells of ripe vegetables filled the kitchen. The wedges in the oven became crispy, and we decided to pull them out. The brioche buns were light, making the perfect burger. They were filled with fried halloumi, crispy lettuce, succulent tomatoes, homemade chutney, and spiced hummus. We were all set for the much anticipated movie marathon.

Both my parents, my sister and myself sat down into the homely couch cushions. We set ourselves up, plates on laps, and cups on coasters. And then it started. We pressed play, and were instantly transported into the wizarding world of Harry Potter. The house was thudding in time to the suspenseful story. Shaking at times of distress as the characters ran all over the screen.

We’d decided earlier to make small burgers as an early lunch, but were whisked away when the idea of a movie was proposed. We’d been away from each other for days, and needed a little family bonding time. Dad and myself found ourselves in the kitchen, with the duty of creating an unforgettable meal. Burgers wouldn’t be enough, and we all knew it. The idea of fries was tossed around, and modified to loaded fries. The rich, tomatoey sauce would accompany the fries in a side bowl, with melted cheese on top, for a true dipping sensation. Slabs of halloumi were tossed into the pan, and sizzled away as we started to plate up. Burgers on a plate, surrounded by crispy potato wedges, and a small bowl. The halloumi was added to the burgers, and we trailed into the lounge.

SRC: Colour Fun Run

Friday 24th September 2021

On September 24th the SRC hosted a Colour Fun Run. This was our major fundraiser for the year in which we hoped we would raise enough money to fund some new computer chairs for the Library and the Computer Room. Our final amount has not quite been finalised yet, but we are more than happy to share we have been successful in raising enough money with some left over. When we have our final figure the SRC will decide on how to spend this.

We want to say a big THANK YOU to everyone that actively supported our Colour Fun Run. It was such a Fun, engaging day for both students and staff which lots of positive feedback. Prize orders have now been finalized and we will keep you updated when they will arrive and how to collect them.

Upcoming dates to remember...

Icy pole day: 26th of November

JP games: 9th of December.

Disco: 9th of December.
